Ex-Cashler Crawford Arrested. The complicated affairs of the American national bank of Springfield took a decidedly sensational turn the other

This was caused by the arrest of A. B. Crawford, ex-cashier of the bank, at the instance of W. D. Lattimer, bank examiner. The charges in the complaint are embezzlement and making a false statement of the condition of the bank July 12, 1893. The amount of his shortage. it is stated, will reach $30,000, though $16,500 had been discovered beyond question when the warrant for Mr. Crawford's apprehension was sworn out. A preliminary hearing was held before United States Commissioner Sitsby. who held him in $5,000 bonds until the 24th inst., Col. John O'Day, his brother-in-law, going his surety.

[The American national bank, capital $200. 300. was organized about four years ago through the instrumentality of A. B. Crawford. The stockholders are for the most part non-residents of Springfield, and when the bank ens officered Mr Crawford was made cashier On the 20th of last May the American national bought and consolidated with the First national bank, the oldest financial institution of Springfield. Among the items acquired was $13,000 in cash, which the present examination of the tooks, as alleged in the complaint, shows was appropriated by Mr Crawford and does not appear among the assets transferred.

The Recorder of Voters.

Jefferson City special. In division No. 1 of the state supreme court the case of the State of Missouri ex rel. Attorney-General vs. C. S. Owsley, Recorder of Voters of Kansas City, was argued and sub mitted. In this case the object of those who instituted the proceedings is to oust the recorder from office, the chief ground on which it is based being that the act creating the office s unconstitutional. Judge R. H. Field argue the case against Owsley and Judge J. McD. Trimble for him. If the court should vacate the office, the decision would operate in the same way against the recorder of voters of St. Louis. The writ was denied some months ago by the court, and it is here again on an amend ed petition. Judge Field claims, among other things, that the state has no right to impos upon a municipality the expense of an officer like the recorder of voters to supervise municipal elections. The case was taken under advisement by the court. Missouri Geological Survey. An important meeting of the board of managers of the state geological survey was held at Jefferson City. The members of the board present were Gov Stone, Prof. E. N. Shepard, of Springfield: Prof. W. H. Seaman, of the State School o Mines at Rolla; Dr. J. H. Britts, of Clinton and W. O. L. Jewett, of Shelbina. The board determined to continue the field work of the survey after June 1, although the money at the command of the board is at a rather low ebb enly about $8,200 of the original appropriation of $20,000 remaining unexpended. Out of this sum it was decided to publish the geologist's report on paleontology, lead and zinc, coal and iron. These reports are to be printed, but not bound. The field work of the survey under this arrangement will necessarily be somewhat limited during the summer. For Inspector of Steamboats.

Washington special. Capt. H. W. Brolaski, of St. Louis, has ar rived to push his candidacy for supervising inspector of steamboats in the St. Louis dis trict. He has the backing of ex-Congressman John J. O'Neill and a number of leading democrats of St. Louis. Congressman Cobb has in dorsed Capt. McKinney. Congressman Hatch has a candidate. So has Champ Clark. Altogether there are seventeen applicants for the appointment. Capt. Brolaski enjoys the disinction of being the steamboat man who car ried Andrew Johnson to St. Louis. That was the first time a president of the United States had visited the city. The whole fleet, which was more imposing in those days than it is now, went up to Alton, and Capt. NEW YORK, March 17 .- Although Conressman Breckinridge was married to Mrs. Louise S. Wing in this city on April 29, 1893, the marriage certificate was not filed at the bureau of vital statistics here until yesterday. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. John R. Paxton, at that time pastor of the West Presbyterian church, at his residence, 51 West Forty-sixth street. The certificate, which came by mail, contains these details relative to the contracting parties:

Groom-William C. P. Breckinridge, aged 55, residence, Lexington, Ky., born in Baltinore; widower; second marriage. Bride—Locise R. Wing, born in Kentucky widow; second marriage; maiden name Scott. Witnesses to the marriage, Mary L. Paxton and Elanor M. Collier. The handwriting on the paper is identical with that of Col. Breckinridge, but the signature is certainly that of Dr. Paxton. Doubtless, Col. Breckinridge filled in the blank form and the clergyman simply signed it On the outside of the envelope in which the certificate was inclosed was written: "If not delivered in two days return to C. F. B., 51 West Forty-sixth street." The writing on the envelope looks like Dr. Paxton's.

At the health department there is much speculation over the delay in filing the certificate. The sanitary code says that all marriages must be recorded within thirty days, and it is probable that Dr. Paxton will be called upon for an explanation.

According to the certificate, Col. Breckinridge had been married to Mrs. Wing several months previous to the time that he is alleged to have confessed his engagement to the widow to Miss Pollard.

The News of the Secret Marriage

Washington. WASHINGTON, March 17 .- The news from New York that the marriage of Col. W. C. P. Breckinridge and Mrs. Louise Wing had taken place secretly in that city on April 29 last, according to the marriage certificate, three months before the public ceremony, was spread about the court room where the breach-of-promise case was being tried yesterday afternoon, and created great interest. Counsel, however, were able to see what bearing this marriage could have on the case, for testimony had been given that the engagement of Col. Breckinridge and Miss Pollard existed nearly a month prior to the date of the secret marriage as given in the certificate which has just been filed in New York. Mrs. Julia C. Blackburn, the widow who testified in the case on March 9, said that on Good Friday, in 1893, Col. Breckinridge brought Miss Pollard to her apartments at the Portland, in this city, and presented her as his future wife, asking Mrs. Blackburn to give the young woman her protection during the engagement. Good Friday in 1893 came on March 31, while the secret marriage is recorded as having taken place April 29 of that year.

Miss Pollard testified on the witness stand yesterday that "on one of the last days of August," in 1392, Col. Breckinrige had asked her to marry him and she had consented.

Col. Breckinridge was told by a United Press reporter that the certificate of the New York marriage had been filed with the bureau of vital statistics, and asked if he would say some-Odessa, Lafayette county, who was inthing about it. "No; I have not anything to say," > you will have to wait until I go on the stand; then you'll hear the whole story. No; I really can't say anything about it." Mr. Stoll, of Lexington, one of Col. Breckinridge's counsel, said, laughingly, patting Col. Breckinridge on the "Oh, you just wait until we get this old fellow on the stand, and then you'll know the truth. But we're keeping quiet just now."

The Brother in the Case. Louisville, Ky., March 17.-Dr. Preston Scott, brother of Col. Breckinridge's wife, refused yesterday to answer the question if the statement was true that he had compelled Breckinridge to marry his sister immediately after the death of the colonel's first wife. His face flushed as he said that the matter only concerned the members of the two families. Dr. Scott visited the newspaper offices of this city the day before the Breckinridge-Wing wedding here and insisted on the publication of the fact that the marriage would take place then, in spite of the fact that Breckinridge had previously denied a statement to that effect. It is not known here if Dr. Scott or his sister will testify in the Pollard-Breekinrilge case in Washington.

THE WAR IS OVER.

The Governor of Colorado of Prominent Citizens Considers the Question of Inquiring Into the Chief Executive's Sanity—Gen. McCook's Posi-

DENVER, Col., March 16 .- At 2 o'clock this afternoon a meeting of prominent men assembled in Caldwell Yeaman's office, on the fifth floor of the Boston block, to consider the advisability of proceeding against the governor on the question of his sanity.

A committee was selected to call upon Gen. McCook and find out what he proposed to do and another to look up the lunacy laws. Both committees are to report at 8:30 this evening. The question of lunacy is sprung solely for the purpose of preventing the governor from proceeding with the militia without the advice of anyone. It is an extreme act, only to be attempted as a last resort. Hon. Caldwell Yeaman was at the head of this matter.

During the day all sorts of rumors were sprung and the people were in & constant state of expectation. From every city where a militia company is organized came the report that the companies had assembled awaiting orders from the governor. The first indication that the cabinet at Washington had met to consider the trouble here was received by the United Press and quickly thrown out upon the streets by extra editions. The matter of arresting the governor for contempt of court was not.

Judge Graham said: "I shall take no action on the application made to me for a writ of attachment for Gov. Waite for contempt unless there is some change in the situation. Unless there is a new display of force at the city hall or somebody is hurt or some other important change in the present status of things occurs, the situation does not call for action on my part."

The attorneys for both the old board and the governor were firm in the position taken by them last night. Today neither side would recede an inch.

and both parties claimed to be right. Members Martin and Orr, backed by the police and the sheriff, were defiant and declared that Gov. Waite could never bluff them. The attorneys for the new members sent a notice to them in the afternoon that unless Gov. Waite called off the militia and consented to legal steps through arbitration they would withdraw from the case. The newspapers all condemn the governor. The secret meeting of the representative business men adjourned at 11 o'clock without arriving at any conclusion. During the meeting men whose names are well known throughout the land made excited speeches recommending drastic measures. One said he knew where guns could be obtained to use in an attempt to capture of Gov. Luke Blackburn, of Kentucky, the armory and quench the ardor of

GEN. M'COOK'S ORDERS.

He is Responsible Alone to the President, and Is the Right Man for the Place. Washington, March 17 .- Late yesterday afternoon instructions were telegraphed to Gen, McCook by order of President Cleveland. Secretary Lamont states the instructions were as follows: Gen. McCook was only authorized to use troops for the protection of the government unless the representation was made to him by the governor of the state that the state authorities are unable, with the force at this command to suppress the insurrection. This is in effect an approval of Gen. McCook's action in ordering the the troops from Fort Logan to Denver, but not to the extent of giving him discretion to preserve the peace, or of he said. "It will all come out later. rendering assistance to the state mili-I mustn't talk of those things nowtia in enforcing state laws. Neither is the general to withdraw his troops at the command of the governor, nor is he to take any directions at all from the governor, who can expect nothing at all from the United States forces until he has confessed his inability to uphold the law, and at that moment Gen. McCook, under the constitution and as the representative of the president, will preserve order under strict military regulations. Gen. Schofield, commanding the army, says it is not possible for Gen. McCook to take orders from Gov. Waite or any other person than the president or the president's direct military subordinates. It is impossible to delegate any military authority to a civil officer, and therefore Gen. McCook will continue supreme as far as the United States forces are concerned and responsible to the president alone. Gen. McCook's ability to go safely through the present complication, involving, as it does, so many delicate points, is declared at the war department to be second to that of no officer in the service, and the fullest confidence is expressed that he will commit no indiscretion, no matter how great. the provocation.

The Bloodless Campaign Ended. DENVER, Col., March 16.-The war is over. At least it is announced by I. N.
